

Please scroll down for translation

饮水思源的校友

我们有热心参与校友会事务的年轻人。一些年轻大学生毕业后会捐钱，或协助大学主办活动。

最近一名从新加坡管理大学毕业的年轻人林文彬，刚踏入社会工作。他决定把每年一半的薪水捐给母校，投入奖学金，用来资助一名会计系学生支付学费。

他父母给他提供了受教育的机会，他认为这是他向父母表示感谢的方式。

心件的特点

这些都是心件须有的特点：他们都是独立个体，不是由上至下指挥安排的。他们懂得关怀社会、懂得组织起来做事，而且他们都对新加坡有归属感。

他们知道自己做出了贡献，推动了改变，使改变看得见。

我捐助奖学金这件事会引起这么多的注意，令我非常意外。我希望此举可以启发更多人也作出贡献。我非常感激父母和学校为我所做的一切。我捐助这个奖学金是向双方表达谢意的最好方式。

——捐助奖学金的
新加坡管理大学
毕业生林文彬

Publication: Lianhe Zaobao
Date: 21 August 2006
Headline: Alumni who gives back

We have some young people who are active in alumni affairs of their alma mater. Some young graduates would donate money after they finish university or help the university organize activities. Recently, an SMU graduate Darren Lim decided to donate a part of his salary every year to SMU to set up a scholarship and help one accountancy student each year with tuition fees. His alma mater has provided him with an opportunity in education and he feels this is one way to show gratitude.

"I am very surprised that my donation has attracted so much attention. I hope this will inspire more people to contribute. I am also very grateful to my parents and my university for doing so much for me. My donation towards this scholarship is the best way to show my appreciation," said SMU graduate Darren Lim who donated towards a scholarship in SMU.