A forum in English involving undergraduates from The National University of Singapore and Singapore Management University, and their counterparts from the University of Brunei Darussalam. The University Forum is into its 7th year; this year, students will be sharing their views on the topic: “Self-Independence: how do the young value it?”