SMU’s new online research tool

THE Singapore Management University (SMU) has launched a new online research and analysis journal called Knowledge@SMU. The new tool was developed in partnership with Knowledge@Wharton, an online resource centre from the Wharton School under the University of Pennsylvania. SMU’s new research journal will contain a wide range of publications and articles spanning a wide range of topics like finance, investment, as well as management issues such as leadership and managing change.