SINGAPORE: Thrill-seekers gathered at East Coast Park on Sunday afternoon for an adventure carnival organised by students of the Singapore Management University.

But the event was not just for youths.

Ministry of Community Development, Youth and Sports Parliamentary Secretary Teo Ser Luck also joined in the action.

Mr Teo wobbled his way across the Tyrolean traverse – a mountaineering adventure sport which requires a person to cross between two high points on a rope strung taut between them.

Twenty teams of students from different education levels also took part in an adventure race during the event.

The event was organised by SMU Xtremists, the university's student body in charge of outdoor adventure sports.

The aim was to generate passion in adventure sports and convince people it is a safe and viable way to keep fit.
