SINGAPORE: A spectacular display of dominoes was painstakingly created by students from the Singapore Management University (SMU) at the Jurong West Sports and Recreation Centre on Sunday.

Called 'Dominoes of Dreams', the 50,000 pieces that were assembled represented the hopes and dreams of Singapore's youths.

The dominoes were also SMU's way of raising awareness on the needs of the physically and intellectually disabled in Singapore.

Just like how each domino needs a push in the right direction, the event seeks to highlight the importance of each individual in society.
