SMU APPLICATIONS UP 21 PER CENT
The Singapore Management University (SMU) has received a record number of applications for the next academic year. When applications closed on April 10, the school saw a 21 per cent jump compared to the year before. SMU received over 12,900 applications vying for 1,485 places in its six full-time degree programmes. Its new School of Law received over 1,250 applications for 82 places — making its programme 15 times oversubscribed. Successful applicants would receive their letters of offer in May.
