SMU CELEBRATES PEACE DAY

About 100 students and faculty members from the Singapore Management University (SMU) got together on Friday to celebrate its annual International Day of Peace for the third consecutive year.

Hailing from 30 countries including Russia and Turkey, they were dressed in their national costumes and recited a peace pledge in their native languages.

About one in five of the SMU student population is a non-Singaporean.